"Oklahoma" and "Bogie" Kicks Off Summer Session Activities Plans

Melodyland Theatre's presentation of "Oklahoma" and "Bogie," a Humphrey Bogart Film Festival, kick off this summer's list of Cal-State sponsored cultural activities.

The Rodgers and Hammerstein hit will premiere at Melodyland in Anaheim on Tuesday, July 6. Starring John Raitt and Eileen Christy, the play marks the opening of the theatre's third annual Summer Musical Series.

Special arrangements have been made with Melodyland enabling CSF to purchase 100 of the premiere tickets which are now on sale to students at the reduced price of $2.50 at the AS Ticket Office in the music-speech-drama building.

"Key Largo," the second in a series of four Humphrey Bogart films to be presented during the summer session, will be shown at 8 p.m. in the Recital Hall on Wednesday, June 30.

The film is credited with introducing something of American literature into the Hollywood movie and creating characterization comparable to that of the novel.

"The Big Sleep," a Bogart classic written by William Faulkner, will be presented on July 14 and will be followed on August 11 by the last film in the "Bogie" series, "Treasure of Sierra Madre."

Arrangements have also been made this summer with the Hollywood Bowl and 100 tickets have been purchased by the college for each of two performances by the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra. A $1 ticket purchased at the A.S. Ticket Office includes both a seat at the concert and round-trip transportation by bus.

The Bowl performances are scheduled for the nights of July 13 and July 20.

Trainees Must Apply by July 1

CSCF has been authorized by the U.S. Office of Education to award five $1500 traineeships to prospective elementary and secondary teachers of the mentally retarded. Dr. Wayne Lance, assistant professor of education, announced that the application deadline is July 1.

Students who will be seniors or graduates in the fall and who are interested in the program should talk with Dr. Lance in LS-461 prior to July 1.

The trainee must be a full-time student during the 1965-66 academic year and must be enrolled in the program for the preparation of teachers of the mentally retarded.

Summer Session Enrollment Sets Record With 2,100 Applicants

An early tally made by the Cal-State Fullerton Summer Session Office shows that summer school enrollment for the six-week session may reach the 2,100 mark.

Some 128 students have already enrolled for the four-week session which begins on August 2. These figures better last year's summer enrollment by more than 300 students.

At the close of early registration on Friday, June 11, 1,305 had signed up for classes. The other eight or nine hundred stood in line and took their chances on classes already being filled or closed out.

Sixteen workshops and special classes, and approximately 196 regular classes are being offered during the two summer sessions. Subjects range from accounting to speech and classes meet mornings, afternoons, and evenings.

THE LINE UP—At least eight hundred students waited in line to register for the current six-week summer session. Another 1,305 registered early. (Titan Times Photo)

UPDATES PROGRAM

English Department Revises Requirements for Majors

English majors should be aware of changes in their major requirements so they can update their academic programs, said Dr. Ramsay, humanities division chairman.

"Upper division students, if they elect to comply with the new requirements, need only take Analysis of Literary Forms," he said. "The new requirements have bearing upon students in the lower division and are mandatory for students entering in the fall of 1966."

"A student does not have to fulfill any requirements but those that were in existence when he entered this college," said Dr. Ramsay. "Only those students already enrolled and who wish to have their major reflect the new changes need be concerned," he added.

English Institute Program Begins

A government sponsored Summer English Institute program is now underway on the Cal-State Fullerton campus. Sixty teachers with at least three year's English experience under their belts are participating in the eight-week session.

The Institute, which has drawn teachers from all over the United States, is being financed under the National Defense Education Act. This has made it possible for the participants to receive a stipend of $75 per week plus $15 per week for each dependent. The members are not being charged tuition or other regular expenses while attending.

The first four weeks of the Institute is being devoted to daily classes and lecture sessions. In the second four weeks, the teachers' time will be spent in seminars and individual conferences. Time has also been set aside for independent study. Emphasis is being placed on seeking solutions to problems of the classroom.

Upon completion, the teachers will earn eight semester units of graduate credit.

Workshop Sets Play Schedule

The Cal-State Fullerton drama department's Theatre Workshop plans to produce two plays during the current six-week summer session.

Tickets are now on sale at the Associated Student Ticket Office in the music-speech-drama building for the first production, William Inge's "Bus Stop." The play will run July 8-11 at 8 p.m. in the Arena Theatre.

Tickets are $1.50 general admission and 50 cents for students.

Scheduled to begin on July 29 is Christopher Fry's translation of Jean Giraudoux's "Tiger at the Gates."

Both plays will be under the direction of Dr. Edward D. Brown with technical assistance from Harry B. McColgen. Ross Corbin will design the costumes for "Tiger at the Gates."

Faculty Boasts Top Number Of Doctorates

Cal-State Fullerton has the highest percentage of full-time faculty members with doctorates of any of the California State Colleges, according to President William B. Langsdorf.

A recently compiled profile shows that of a total 1166 faculty members, 75.3 per cent have earned their doctorate, 22.3 have a master's degree and 2.4 have a baccalaureate degree.

Of the full-time teaching staff, 37 are full professors, 45 associate professors, 75 assistant professor, 6 instructors and 3 lecturers.

The immediate past experience of the full-time faculty has been: college or university, 72.4 per cent; junior college 9.6 per cent; high school or elementary, 7.2 per cent; industry, 6.6 per cent; government, 3 per cent; other, 1.2 per cent.

Restrict Parking In Lot D to Faculty

Parking in Lot D is restricted to the faculty and staff from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. weekdays, according to the summer session office.

Cars not bearing the appropriate stickers will be ticketed by the campus police.

CSF Housing Open To Fall Students

Dormitory space is now available for next fall according to Richard H. Shaner, activities adviser, but there is limited space for the many applications expected.

"When the first unit, the present Othrys Hall is full, a waiting list will be compiled," Shaner said. The second unit, which is now under construction, will be opened when the waiting list is large enough to fill the hall.

Shaner said that applications for dorm space are taken throughout the year and that an early application is the only way to insure a room for next fall.

Applications may be obtained in LS-207.

Non-Resident Tuition Fee Increases $40 Next Year

Non-resident students at Cal-State Fullerton will have to pay a $40 increase in tuition next fall according to action taken earlier this month by the state college board of trustees at a meeting in San Francisco.

Approval was granted for all state colleges to raise the non-resident tuition from $500 to $540 per year effective this fall. The fee does not apply to foreign students who pay $255 per year.

The action followed a public hearing during which the trustees announced their intention of bringing the fee more in line with the cost of instruction per student.

At the same meeting working drawings were approved for classroom conversions at Cal-State Fullerton estimated at $629,304.

PR Director To Resume Teaching

Raynolds Johnson director of public information at Cal-State Fullerton, has resigned his position to return to full-time teaching, according to an announcement by the President's Office.

Johnson will join the faculty of the Communications Department as assistant professor. He has served as administrative assistant to the President, director of public relations and publications manager since 1961.

Times Staffers Attend Confab

Comedian Bob Hope and Norman Issacs, vice president and executive editor of the Louisville Courier Journal and Louisville Times, were the featured guests at the 27th Annual Editors' Conference of the California Newspaper Publishers Association attended by three Cal-State Fullerton students last weekend at Stanford University.

Representing the Titan Times at the three day conference were John Hardy, Tom Burgnon and Jim Drummond. Ted C. Smythe, assistant professor of journalism, accompanied the group as adviser.

The conference consisted of talks and panels during the day by California editors and professors and social gatherings in the late afternoons with evening dinners in Palo Alto.

Attorney General Thomas J. Lynch and Justice Alfred Goodwin of the Oregon Supreme Court spoke on a panel discussing "A Fair Trial and a Free Press" during the Friday session.

On Saturday, Relman Morin, awarded winning Associated Press correspondent in Viet Nam, spoke on Viet Nam.
